

Teaching the Holocaust

December 4, 2008

IMC- Educational Technology Classroom
8:00am-3:00pm

No event has had a more chilling impact on modern world history than the Holocaust during World War II. However, over the past fifteen years the world has witnessed acts of genocide that many observers say parallel, at least in part, the horrors that took place under the direction of the German Nazis.

Join SDSU's Nasatir Chair in Modern Jewish History, Dr. Lawrence Baron, and the co-directors of Chico State's Center for Excellence in the Study of the Holocaust, Genocide, Human Rights, and Tolerance, Dr. Carol Edelman and Dr. Sam Edelman, in a full-day workshop that focuses on teaching about the Holocaust and genocide. Professor Baron will present "Teaching the Holocaust with Feature Films," and Professors Sam and Carol Edelman will focus on "The Holocaust and Moral Decision Making." The day will include discussions about curriculum for use in your classroom, and conclude with a book talk by Michael Bart, author of Until Our Last Breath: A Holocaust Story of Love and Partisan Resistance.

The History/Social Studies Department will provide lunch and a copy of Mr. Bart's book for each teacher.
